

From: chas
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/20/01 4:54am
Subject: DOJ settlement

I'm afraid that the settlement doesn't go far enough. The original focus was to break up the company. Ultimately the settlement amounted to no more than a slap on the wrist. For instance, no sooner did the settlement finalize, than MS was accused of keeping all but its own browsers from accessing its MSN network. Granted, it was remedied but it is an example of how MS flaunts its "power" in the face of the DOJ.

Time will tell.

Charles Cusumano